

SHORES CAMERA CLUB

FOCUS

March 2006

THE MONTHLY NEWSLETTER OF THE SHORES
CAMERA CLUB WHICH MEETS IN DAYTONA
BEACH SHORES, FLORIDA

President's Corner

Well, I think we've started the year off really well. Our first speaker, Gregory Daniel, gave an outstanding program. We had Kevin Doxstater giving the third part of his Photoshop series for our workshop, and there were quite a few members at the photo safari to Shiloh Drive last weekend. We've also had several new members join, plus we've had guests attending both our program and workshop.

Unfortunately, not all is great news. We still need a webmaster and the response to my email asking for a volunteer was "under-whelming". If you have any experience with web pages please consider filling this position.

Some of you Windows users may not be aware that Microsoft has some little freebie photo programs that can be downloaded from the Microsoft website. Those of you with photo editing programs probably won't be interested in these (except for the raw image viewer) but we may have members that can use these so I'm passing them along. The only one I've personally used is the raw image viewer so I can't vouch for the usefulness of the other two.

Raw Image Viewer allows you to view

Andrew Makal

Great Blue Heron

RAW images in Windows:

<http://www.microsoft.com/windowsxp/using/digitalphotography/prophoto/raw.msp>

Group Shot helps you create a perfect group photo out of a series of group photos and can be found here:

<http://research.microsoft.com/projects/GroupShot/>

Photo Story3 edits photos, creates slideshows and other does various other little things:

<http://www.microsoft.com/windowsxp/using/digitalphotography/photostory/default.msp>

That's all I have for this month, see you all at the next meeting.

Stephanie

9 March Program

The guest speaker for our regular membership meeting on the 9th of March